COUNTRY HOUSE HOTEL

The Perfect Wedding Venue

Weddings are such a special event so . . . Step back in time and revel in the surrounding enjoyed by crowned heads from across Europe, when in 1907 Wood Norton Hall was the scene of a Royal Wedding between Princess Louise of Orleans and Prince Charles of Bourbon.

From small intimate gatherings to grand affairs, the professional staff at Wood Norton Hall will cater for your every need, leaving you and your guests to revel in your Wedding Celebrations.

Exclusive use

One of the best ways to celebrate your wedding here at Wood Norton Hall is to enjoy the benefits of Exclusive Use, which we highly recommend. This allows you sole use of Wood Norton Hall for your wedding day and the evening based on a minimum of 60 guests and includes the use of all public rooms in the Hall for your marriage ceremony and reception, complimentary room hire and private use of gardens.

To discuss your wedding plans please call 01386 425780 or request a brochure.

Never too early to start planning

IF you've had a wedding in the family, you'll know that your whole world will be turned upside down in the weeks preceding the event!

Announcement of an engagement is enough to send the family into a frenzy of activity. The wedding might be months away, but you can never start planning too early.

Planning a wedding can place a considerable strain on the whole family, so it's advisable to set aside time to sit down and plan everything down to the last detail, from the church, if it is to be a formal wedding, through to photographs and flowers.

A wedding reception needs careful planning. It is an occasion when people let their hair down and drink a great deal! The amount you allow per person will depend on the capacity of the guests, but a good average is about half a bottle of champagne or wine for each person.

If you are catering for the wedding yourself, you can order drinks on a sale or return basis. If the reception is to be held at an hotel, keep the manager informed about the number of guests who are coming to the wedding, not just the number you have invited. You will be expected to pay for all the food you have ordered, even if some people don't turn up.

The traditional wedding party drink is champagne but less expensive sparkling wines are perfectly acceptable. Soft drinks should always be provided for children and those driving.

It has always been traditional for the bride's parents to pay for the wedding. But today the parents of the groom may also contribute, as may the bride and groom.

It is not unusual for the bride and groom to pay for the wedding themselves if their financial situation warrants it.

If you are compiling a wedding present list, remember that not all your friends or relatives have bottomless wallets, so include smaller items!

To avoid duplications you could use a loose leaf notebook, putting one item on one page. Once a relative chooses a gift, they simply pull out that page. Simple, but it avoids headaches of having three toasters etc.

It is sometimes difficult amid the chaos organising a big wedding to grasp that it is not mum's day, dad's day or anyone else's day. It's the bride and groom's day and with a lot of forethought, careful planning and hopefully some kind weather, it will be a day for them to remember for the rest of their lives.

Essential advice for dress choice

EVERY bride-to-be has a clear image of the perfect wedding dress in her mind.

However, choosing from the huge range of styles, shapes and shades on offer may seem like a daunting task.

Instead of hoping to find your fairytale outfit by trial and error, simply sticking to a few easy guidelines will ensure you look fabulous.

Right from the start, when buying your first bridal magazine, knowing your own body shape is the key. It goes beyond tall, petite, slim, plus size — you also have to bear in mind your colouring, physical features and the line of your body.

■ HOURGLASS: Go for strapless or off-the-shoulder dresses to accentuate curves without overloading them. Avoid heavy beading or large accessories, one-piece dresses with a nipped-in waist are much more flattering. A two-piece can tend to give you a 'choppy' look, whereas you should try to create a seamless effect.

■ PEARSHAPED: This shape consists of smaller shoulders and upper body compared to the lower body, so choose a dress that gives you volume on top and simplicity at the bottom. Draw attention to your top half and add a shoulder wrap made of delicate feathers around your shoulders or have silk flowers attached to the straps of your dress.

■ SHORT AND PETITE: Those with a petite figure

have the most options. Avoid heavy fabrics and instead go for something more delicate — a netted princess-style dress would look beautiful, as would shoestring straps and off-the-shoulder empire line dresses. If you are wearing high heels to create a taller body line then remember that if you change into flats in the evening, this will change the overall effect.

■ BROAD SHOULDERS: If you have broad shoulders and narrow hips then choose a dress that creates balance because you need volume from the waist down. If you are tall with it, then a full flouncy skirt will work well as it creates the illusions of symmetry in size for top and bottom.

A-Z guide keeps you on top of it

A is for ALBUM: Ensure you have perfect photographs by employing a professional. Friends and relatives can also take pictures but professional photographers have the experience to cope with changing weather conditions and lighting and choose the best settings.

B is for BRIDESMAIDS: Whether they are friends or relatives, bridesmaids will be an invaluable help to you on your busy day. When you approach them, it is also a good time to choose, if required, your pageboys.

C is for CHURCH: Once you have decided to marry in a church and set the date, it is important you see the minister as soon as possible to ensure that you get the day and time you want. Once you have booked the church, the minister will offer you advice on the form of service, choice of hymns and wedding music, the reading of the banns and other aspects of the wedding. Do ask whether he allows photographs and video recording in church and confetti throwing, because he may object. If you choose a Register Office, you must go along at least a month before in person to obtain a marriage certificate and fulfil residence conditions.

D is for DATE: Whether is is booking the church or reception venue, selecting your photographer or choosing your flowers, remember to book early to avoid disappointment.

▲ Silk or fresh is the first choice to make on flowers.

E is for ENTERTAINMENT: Today most people have discos but before booking a DJ, ensure he can meet all your requirements. For instance, can he play all ranges of music from waltzes for the older guests to the latest sounds around? It is also worthwhile to get quotes from two or three DJs.

F is for FLOWERS: The wedding bouquet must complement your dress, while the bridesmaids' bouquets must suit their dresses. There is a choice between fresh or silk flowers for bouquets, garland and corsages. The silk ones will last forever, providing a lasting reminder of your special day and are a good idea for hay fever sufferers in the height of summer. It is a good idea, if possible, to take a piece of cloth from your wedding dress and bridesmaids' dresses to the florist for an exact colour match.

G is for GROOM: The groom and best man must also look after their wedding attire and the decision for them, for morning suits or ordinary, is whether to hire or buy.

H is for HONEYMOON: Put yourself in the hands of a reputable travel company who will look after your needs, whether honeymooning in this country or abroad.

I is for INVITATIONS: For anything other than a very small wedding, printed or engraved invitations are the most convenient. Most good stationers have sample invitations and get comparative quotations before making a final choice.

J is for JEWELLERY: In many cases both bride and groom choose to have wedding rings and jewellers have responded to this by making matching sets. It is a good idea to start looking for your wedding rings three months ahead in case they need altering. Very often the groom will buy the bridesmaids an item of jewellery, such as a cross and chain or bracelet.

K is for KISS: When you hear those famous words 'kiss the bride' you know your worries were unfounded, it's gone like a dream!

L is for LOVE: Your wedding day is the start of a lifetime of love and sharing together, so ensure everything is well planned and organised in advance so you won't miss a minute of this unique day.

M is for MORTGAGE: Most newlyweds wish to start off in their own home and plans for house buying must start as soon as possible.

N is for NEWSPAPER ANNOUNCEMENTS: News of your engagement and forthcoming marriage can be placed in your Evesham or Cotswold Journal. Most wedding photographers will also ensure a photograph will appear in the newspaper.

O is for OUTFITS: As well as your beautiful wedding dress, you must also decide what other outfits you will require — will you wear your wedding dress at the reception, for instance.

▲ Kiss the bride and enjoy the moment.

P is for PRESENTS: Compile a wedding list which you can give to guests to give them ideas of what you really need. Include the complete price range so no-one feels obliged to spend a fortune.

Q is for QUEST FOR THE BEST: You want everything to be perfect, so it is always a good idea to allow yourself time to shop around.

R is for RECEPTION: You must decide whether you require an evening reception, and if you are going to have the same venue throughout the day. It is important to book your reception venue and outside caterers as early as possible. If you are booking a hotel, try and sample a meal there before finally booking the room.

S is for SPEECHES: Speeches are an important part of a wedding but they should be brief, sincere and humorous if possible. The bride's father or an old family friend proposes a toast to the bride and groom's health. The bridegroom replies and should thank those who have given the wedding. He then thanks guests for their presents and finishes by proposing a toast to the attendants. The best man replies on their behalf and may conclude by reading cards and telegrams.

T is for TRANSPORT: Wedding cars should be booked as early as possible. Don't forget to double check your travel arrangements one week before the wedding.

U is for USHERS: Formal church weddings require a minimum of three ushers. They hand out service sheets to guests on arrival and show them to their seats. The bride's family is on the left-hand side of the altar, the bridegroom's on the right. One usher should wait for the bride's mother to escort her to her seat and also the groom's parents.

V is for VIDEO: Having a professional video made of your wedding day is the ideal way of keeping cherished memories alive.

W is for WEDDING CAKE: Your cake should be moist, rich and beautiful and it should photograph well for your treasured reception photographs. It should be ordered at least six weeks in advance and a confectioner will advise you on the size and type.

X is for the KISS: The one that started it all!

Y is for WHY WORRY? If you have followed our guide, everything will be well organised and go without a hitch.

Z . . . zzz is for SLEEPING: Peacefully, knowing you have a splendid day ahead.

Handy tips help you look perfect

“ON your wedding day, subtly applied make-up is essential and will bring out the star in you,” reassures Jacqui Ripley, author of How To Be A Beautiful Bride.

She advises paying particular attention to your base: “Applying a primer before foundation will help the foundation to stay put. You don’t want a heavy-looking base, so choose a foundation that covers blemishes while allowing skin to breathe.”

Face shine is your number one enemy in pictures, so give yourself a fine dusting with ultra-light powder before you smile for the camera.

Apply a flush of colour on the cheeks for a pretty and youthful look, and when it comes to colour on eyes and lips, Jacqui suggests keeping it neutral.

“Resist the temptation to go for brightly coloured hues,” she says. “If you want to use something more exciting than taupe, like sparkly gold powder, apply it with a dampened brush for a more shimmery feel.”

Kissing, eating and sipping champagne will test your lipstick to the max. Shades close to your own lip colour are low-maintenance, compared to dramatic reds which look striking but will need frequent reapplication.

Jacqui advises against lip-gloss if you’re wearing a veil: “It will make your veil stick to your lips. Use a slick of petroleum jelly instead.”

Choose a mascara and eye-liner that can withstand tears.

On the question of hair,

stylists recommend you start thinking about your hairstyle for the big day as soon as you set a date.

Three months before the wedding, start discussing ideas with your stylist and take pictures of looks you like, so they can offer advice on what style will suit your face shape and your dress.

A few wispy strands falling onto and around the face gives the illusion of a slimmer face, while loose curls or a relaxed up-do gives the effect of a shapely face. Falling tendrils and waves that finish at the chin will make a large forehead seem less broad.

Don’t feel like you have to try a dramatically different style.

Couples want to go to Caribbean

THE Caribbean continues to be the number one destination for couples looking to marry abroad.

St Lucia, Barbados, Antigua and Jamaica all feature in the top ten destinations for couples, with St Lucia being the current number one.

An American Express Travel Weddings and Honeymoons report says more and more money-conscious couples chose to marry abroad to take advantage of low costs.

In the honeymoons overseas market, which has doubled in value since 1998, Mauritius leads the field.

However American Express Travel says that increasing numbers of wedding couples are now heading off the beaten track to 'adventure' destinations including Iceland, Borneo and Bhutan.

Las Vegas and Cyprus have always been strong performers in the weddings sector but the Seychelles and Sri Lanka are starting to force their way in.

Katrina Harrison, the company's vice president for Europe, said: "Sri Lanka sits alongside Cyprus as a wedding destination.

"It's affordably priced and has all the key ingredients – great beaches, guaranteed sun and a beautiful location. Cyprus also wins out for its shorter flight durations and easy wedding regulations."

She went on: "Cost continues to be a crucial factor in choosing a wedding overseas. Our offices report spends of between £3,000-£6,000, well under half the figure for a UK ceremony.

▲ Sunshine and sand are an irresistible combination for couples.

"For younger couples, finding a destination that combines a great wedding experience with low costs is a priority. That's why themed wedding trips to Las Vegas remain so popular."

According to the survey, Las Vegas is the wedding destination perceived by wedding couples to offer the best value.

Among competing city destinations, New York, Dubai and Cape Town have all grown in popularity.

Meantime, in the fast expanding market for foreign honeymoons, Mauritius, the tiny island gem, has now leapfrogged the Maldives.

In common with other Indian Ocean destinations, the report suggests that this is because of the breadth of luxury 'hideaway' style accommodation in this competitive sector.

Thinking about the right clothes

WHEN wedding invites start flooding in, you know it's time to look at your wardrobe.

Amanda Slader, chief fashion adviser at John Lewis, says there's no need to worry.

"Finding an outfit for a wedding can be tricky, but you can get away with almost anything these days," she said.

"People don't dress for weddings that often, so they tend to have a certain mindset as to what they can and can't wear. The increase of less formal weddings like civil ceremonies can make it hard for people who are used to following a certain wedding etiquette."

There are a few things you should bear in mind though when choosing an outfit, such as the weather, your age and appropriateness.

"You don't want to run around in a strappy dress when it's cold weather, nor do you want to wear a skimpy outfit at a formal ceremony," she said.

■ TRADITIONAL WEDDING:

Amanda advises thinking demurely for a traditional religious wedding.

"Be appropriate, cover your shoulders with a shrug and avoid wearing white and black, which is more funeral-like than wedding," she said.

"Gone are the days of shift dresses and boxy jackets. Today, people can wear anything from floaty dresses to trouser suits, but be aware of the ceremony you've been invited to. If it's very formal or with mature guests, it may be inappropriate to wear anything too fashion-forward or too revealing."

▲ Next provided the source for these stunning wedding outfits.

■ REGISTER OFFICE: You don't have to dress too formally for a civil ceremony, Amanda said.

"You don't want to spend a lot on one outfit you won't feel comfortable wearing again, so try to invest in something you'll want to wear again," she explains.

This could be a delicate dress, a gorgeous skirt or even a trouser suit, depending on your personality.
